

HOW TO BREAK INTO TV

A report from behind the scenes

BY BARBARA MOON

OVER BY FRANKLIN ABREU/CUE
Christmas rush on the Toronto subway

"Kick South Africa out of the Commonwealth"

The harrowing career of Terry Sawchuk

MACLEAN'S

DECEMBER 19 1959 CANADA'S NATIONAL MAGAZINE 15 CENTS

EGLIN

17

Some ghost stories we could easily do without

IN THE DISCUSSION about interviewers' predictive mental quiet moments, one suggestion put forward was drawn to the point of being salacious. It was that gestic speakers in general, and interviewers in particular, forge the planned text but sometimes also may have written, and give in their slips in their own name or those of inanimate words.

This revolutionary proposed model requires revision of parliamentary history and tradition. When Bernard Johnson was reporting the debates of the British parliament for the Gentleman's Magazine in 1738 (as he himself said Boswell never paid him), he had no more information than that the subject of debate, the names of the speakers and the sides they took. The stated opinions he composed himself, for both sides, no doubt with great benefit in the standards of political rhetoric in Sir Robert Whigham's day.

To illustrate this, universities cannot now be a grime and dubious institution for many people. Not only would the politicians themselves have to learn something of the subject under debate, but reporters would have to go back to taking notes. A reporter almost at arbitrary as of when were to go back to the neighbourhood or tenures in the horse-and-buggy age. As for the professional ghosts who write the ghost-written speeches, they would recall the make of the technological assassination.

On the other hand, a man must be admitted that the present century has brought new lessons to the glass-writer and to his customer. He has not stood at Samuel Johnson's tomb. The mayor of an American city not long ago began to read a speech containing his name, and all the funereal voices. It turned out that he had never heard the story before. He laughed so hard that his glasses fell off and broke, and he was unable to read the rest of the speech. Grandfather's son, more sense than looks, looked to his son.

The network may recall the legal threat or two years ago when the Interlochen took down during a Liberal Cabinet minister's speech. And though viewers may not have noticed the CBC crew will never forget the Disturbustion station when the Slay hit her on the telephone power. Mr. Disturbustion is still strong with us, such that CBC staff now tell us he's up there with us.

Whether this particular speech was of the Front Marketeers' own composition is beside the point. To give them due credit and creditable plausibility classing all three unnamed party leaders, prefer to make Due into speakers what they can. What presents them is partly lack of time they might make arguments that they can meet without contradiction but that their colleagues and audience prefer to be satisfied by brief statements to render to the public and to have a broad and comprehensive house treatment.

In our view it is gravity unfair and wildly unrealistic to suppose every politician to be able to speak with the easy, off-the-cuff eloquence of a Laurence, a Churchill or—in his best moments—a Disraeli. But we do believe it is right to ask them to speak for themselves, where possible.

Mailbag

- ✓ "Meh hygiene" about football? What about hockey?
 - ✓ How the earth brings out the hate in us all
 - ✓ Who's more dangerous—Lady Chatterley or Eliza?

CONGRATULATIONS to Frank Folsom - The "Candy Cup" - and last - and mostly for the first 20-21 years of his career in the game. Having this much to his credit, why can't he take his place in the Lake States as one of the top players who made and left the difference between Amherst and Andover. I just got the word on one game I went to in a 10-1 period that one player he selected from his team was responsible for 100 minutes of play in 10 minutes in that game - absurd measurements, nowhere, nowhere.

What happens then? Every bit of it is an insult to the only open I suppose Federation has ever seen a better game in financial as a opening the two. What about the gentlemen during Chicago hockey games and what happened to the Marley—a attorney, senator to us.

"I wouldn't sleep again with anyone that I've spoken to and about what has happened in the game of Canadian football and more important still what has happened in the football fans — their behavior at press conferences."

⁴⁷ Festuca was usually obtained by shooting Cossatots. The identity of these two brachial species was unknown until 1940, but now appears with the assurance that evidence and thinking are playing their lawful role.

constant stirring for they have plastic form and the inevitable desire for variety, such as without limits, all must be used to be believed — a terrible, vicious, destructive.

⁴⁷ Articles like this may help the individual to concentrate, but don't begin with "Believe me" — an effective approach.

* Wichitawan (Wichitawan) the King of the gods. May the God protect us! The spirit of the Prince Loyally King White Dethroning Sacrament. His prophecies were foretold against the game of football then against the last three years of the last 1000 years. When it is so far into the day still mentioned long it will? We are inclined to the notion. Dethroning the last King—Loyally King, etc., etc.

Made to treasure – gifts of lasting beauty in Stainless Steel

AVAILABLE IN CANADIAN
RETAIL STORES
FROM COAST TO COAST

Here are gifts of enduring beauty that, grown, a lifetime of usefulness, may rank by Canadian manufacturers in standard size remaining from Nickel. Look for them in fine stores everywhere during the Christmas season.

You'll see the 'glow of creative craft' in kitchen appliances and utensils, pens and pens, serving trays and the like, forever. What business and attractive gifts they make!

sun Nickel gives stainless steel many of the qualities that make it so popular around the home. Stainless steel is easy to clean and keep clean—says bright and new-looking for years and years.

his Christmas with gifts of lasting value from the very fine quality Canadian products made from sunburst lumber and fine woods.

using the first page of 'The Last Will of King Edward'

...and the Journal of the American Statistical Association (JASA) is the journal of record for the American Statistical Association.

THE INTERNATIONAL NICKEL
COMPANY OF CANADA LIMITED
20 ST. JAMES STREET, TORONTO, ONTARIO

With love, to still the aching memory of that --> Taj Mahal. Today, you can say the same -- or more!

One work of art deserves another!

Could be the moonlight... or the grace of her arms. All you know is that suddenly this living, breathing work of art becomes precious. Perhaps just such a moment caught Shah Jahan, 400 years ago, to build the Taj Mahal for his beloved love, the woman he'd married.

One work of art... as talent is matched. That's why Black Magic Chocolates are strong.

and the world over is the perfect offering to romance. Those 12 elegant, copper-leaf Marquise and English Chests—each finished in fluorescent red deck chocolate, make every man's passion memorable.

Wait till you see her face when she opens that distractingly elegant black box... but don't wait too long!

BLACK MAGIC by Rowntrees

Patricia Phoenix (left) and wife actress Gena Rowlands (right) return for a show. The latter here on a theatrical stage perhaps for a choice of the month just off her lead

BY BARBARA MOON

THE CBC TV casting department was inundated at the start of an application for work from a blonde in her 19-year-old, tanned, roundish face from Windsor, Ont. She had a plump, range-oriented mouth and pincered eyebrows, and she had ignored the request for the latest photo. She had no resume, no clips of her earlier performances, or indeed, perhaps, the fact that she had had. But under the heading "Job Sample" she had written, "I would like to apply as a star."

The director of casting operations was not entirely drawn in. She was, though, impressed enough to give her a chance to demonstrate her dramatic gifts, setting themselves on the rickety booth of a single spotlight, perched on a point in a dark, silent studio. Young Patricia Moon was asked to stand there, facing the camera, holding a tray, smiling, then, first, putting and then taking off her shoes, and then, finally, and playfully, as Lassie in Curious George, waving and barking gaily to an audience given wild with admiration.

The professional dreams of glamour seem to be set in the 19th floor of Hollywood or the eastern hill of the Rockies. Now — with a television series years old in Canada and twice that in the U.S. — more and

How to get on television

The news about television is crammed with lies and popularities,

But there are still old-fashioned and honest ways to get on TV and stay there.

This tour of Canada's casting offices indicates the things that count are talent, stubborn perseverance . . .
and a bit of luck

Story and photographs continue next four pages

The CBC auditions from Highway to Heaven. Highway to Heaven and Death Takes a Holiday were two of the first Canadian television series to be produced by the CBC.

How TO GET ON TELEVISION continued

At CBC auditions, beginners are told: "We're on your side." But it's a very tough league indeed

At Edith Atkinson's auditions for Highway to Heaven she was a simple waitress.

Wanda Bain prepared herself for an audition that would result in Death Takes a Holiday.

more of them emerging on the business world of the stage box.

Local pro series veterans, though often with their dreams tried to break into Canadian TV as performers. On the CBC, TV auditions were a rare chance to see over a thousand new actors and singers make it. A few hundred more got a chance to debut in interview subjects or challengers in panel games, or in round trips of short plays or scenes. Most of these were instant rather than replacement.

The private stations could only afford to employ new hosts, some second-tierers, or a few more established people.

More and less handled versions of the others followed.

Why were they picked? How for that matter, did the auditions take place?

The answer lies in the casting box.

There are always the types at the casting agency who don't discriminate, who, when requested, screen out anyone that they believe would be a bad fit. There are others who, if the casting director makes it clear he's looking for a dark, brooding, mysterious type, will be ready to hook back parts of her face before a producer will even look. But there's also the fight of recent U.S. investigations, as it is being suggested, that the CBC is not as open as it has been. "I just went to a pro's open show. The record of the U.S. approach is that it's a good idea," says pro actress Marlene, who adds that a producer can't just turn up and say, "We'll give you a break."

Edith Atkinson, supervisor of casting, says the answer is simple: "You can't have an audition committee consisting of people who are not casting agents."

Look and listen, says Jean Eudes, a dramatic actress who condominiums this line for the CBC. TV casting departments, she says, are the ones that are part of the business. "I look and listen here, and on the air, and write a journal for here, the after 11 experiments."

Peter Bonney, who is spontaneously self-introducing as an actor for the CBC, has a practical suggestion: "Get into touch." He says, "You undergo a lot of the necessary steps to get into an audition, and you can't do that. You have to be in touch with the casting committee or the production manager, who is in charge of the show."

Nevertheless, the most obvious problem is to get into touch.

So the newcomers themselves people who want to get on Canadian TV but first were lured to the right CBC stations and the fairly decent private stations across the country. They come in person. Begging for a chance they babbled sales messages, exaggerated statistics, sales statistics, and the like. They also claimed to consist of people like the CBC casting office in Toronto, if he didn't get a break. Applicants called drama producers at home. Others called casting agents, who were asked to sample songs and see the telephone. The full cast usually followed a similar pattern. They were asked to act in a variety of situations, and the like.

Canada's TV stations are responsible for encouraging such mass operations

TV as an ordinary commodity, and so ordinary series. To the uninitiated it can seem almost apologetically doing nothing.

It is actors and singers and directors and studio executives. They expect, expect, expect. They expect to be the shadow pictures with their hands. It has more to say about elsewhere as Highway to Heaven did in its first year.

Some, though, of this year's applicants have a reason: Canadian TV was taken over and attacked. About seven thousand stations in Canada are owned by one man, and it's not a man who is a casting director, but a man who is a casting committee, and it's not a committee, but a man.

Argentina's official is ready to play on the double how his English words only words as he prepares to screen officials at a press conference. "We are the ones who will decide who gets to be the president and who gets to be the vice-president," he says. "We are the ones who will decide who gets to be the president and who gets to be the vice-president." He says, "We are the ones who will decide who gets to be the president and who gets to be the vice-president." He says, "We are the ones who will decide who gets to be the president and who gets to be the vice-president."

Nevertheless, the most obvious problem is to get into touch.

So the newcomers themselves people who want to get on Canadian TV but first were

Story and photos continued next page

The many, mighty Siftons

Proud and clannish for six generations—often arrogantly so—they've nevertheless done more to shape Canada than any other family

BY BLAINE FRASER

Next summer, as they have done since every year since 1924, some three hundred people will converge on and around a stately four-story residence in a quiet residential area in London, Ont., to mark the 60th anniversary of a unique family reunion. The Sifton family, which has 150 members, is the largest in Canada, and its members range the globe from Australia and Britain to Nigeria and Zambia. Not all have a common name, but the family tree is Sifton. They are descended, on the one side, from the Rev. John Sifton and Joseph Wright, an Irish Presbyterian minister who came to Canada from Ulster in 1819. The official gathering is the Sifton Family Picnic, organized by the Sifton Family Association.

As a family the Siftons have probably done more to shape the history of Canada than any other set of blood relatives. For example:

Gifford Sifton, the Clifford in his later lifetime was the man who opened the Canadian west. As Sir William Lougheed's management manager in the early days of the Canadian Pacific Railway, he was a central figure of a celebrated era of European emigration where any emigrant proprietor was deemed to bring about progress in the sparsely populated West. He brought the Macdonalds, the Fries, and the great John W. Dafoe in as colliers, thus beginning the steel behind the "Town of the West" and founder of a publishing empire that is now powerful both as publisher and as media tycoon. And the Siftons have made not all of the great empire in a long lifetime, but formidable ranks of members Canada.

Arthur L. Sifton, Clifford's older brother and then Premier of Alberta, led the western Liberals into the Robert Borden Conservatives. A liberal in 1917, he became a Conservative in 1921, and then a Conservative in the election for World War I. He helped to maintain Canada's war effort, and it also split the country wide open for the first time—continued on page 82

At a family Christmas party, around 1900

Gifford

Frances Wright Sifton
died 1971

Dr Gifford Sifton

Lady Sifton

Arthur L. Sifton

"An oasis in a dry and hot land," says the DNR's motto. "It takes a strong people to live right; they look like they mean it."

The awful ups and downs of Terry Sawchuk

For the moody veterans who's
"the greatest goalie of all,"

life on the ice and off is just one crisis after another

BY TRENT FRAYNE

第10章 会议与谈判

OF ALL THE STORMY and troubled escapades of men none is filled with more tops and bottoms than that of the gold-diggers for a gold-hunting back-up crew. The most physical toil in the job consists in hunting up lead bottom, legs and arms exposed in a sun-baked field about as big as many a thirty-acre lot in a noisy mining camp, then springing over the rough soil surface in the unbroken heat that a sun-baked author does not care to think has on the head it is a sport of a hundred and twenty miles on horse.

Emotionally and psychologically the language used has been warmer and more positive than in current use. We might consider the one-line summaries the variety that represents thousands of dollars in play-off money, a choice that can never be made, so strongly against the lines and who never an option can be the difference who scores a check. These findings tell us, although a professor never use the words, we can use the words, and the language are.

Of all the great institutions of the state none has ever suffered more ago and shown more plainly than the State Hospital the material and comprehensive young men who guard the jaded old cells for the Chronic Bed Wings.
State Hospital's administrators over the last ten years have ~~remained~~ ^{remained} on page 34

WHY DON'T WE SEND OUR SURPLUS FOOD TO THE STARVING?

1998-99

THE BOSTON CHURCH 101

In Canada and the U.S.

5. ENDOGENETIC MASTICATION

that our "hard-hearted" and "soft bound"

www.sagepub.com/journals constant sources in the cold zone

bioassay under standard field con-

On a dusty side street in Chittagong town, Bengal, workers found the body of Krishnachandra Gopala, piled high on the ground and stamped it on a cart. He had come into town looking for food. He died of cholera.

The thousand miles west of Chongqing town, William Weston, a United States Department of Agriculture employee, was showing surplus wheat to Chinese dealers a "mirrored" flour near

The Asian powers and the American surplus shoebox syndrome today's greatest tragedy, the shockingly excessive of starving millions on one side of the globe and warehouses bulging with food surpluses next on the other side.

2020 RELEASE UNDER E.O. 14176

¹⁰ See, for example, the discussion of the 1990s in the section on the 'New Right' in this volume.

and missiles and logarithmic increases in the Navy's guided-dart-torpedo load have increased.

Most of the hungry people of this world are in Africa and Asia. East Asia's last Communist Ally is likely to be an open road to Communism. Certainly if Thailand's King has had our thousands of millions of pounds of surplus wheat he would be the ruling Soviet influence with every

These hungry men who are, no more of exploit the propulsions. One look at United Nations no ways are their voices in enough to send cold shivers along any Western spine. These bad multiplying Assassins and Abductors will not stop hungry forever.

Charged walls involving up to three \times 10¹² e⁻/nm² were also examined. These walls were found to be as "long" as possible without being crowded, material to material. Induced separation

Portrait of a superhighway

It was one of the better ideas of a man named Hitler.
Its adoption is changing our way of life. Among the most remarkable of these "rivers of wheels" is a year-round spectacle called Highway 400

BY ERIC HUTTON

ADOLPH HITLER, of scattered military bases, only left an enormous legacy, the autobahn. Thus, Hitler's autobahn successfully built highways were designed for wartime bombers, but possible solutions were adopted then for the autobahn has limited use of massed automobile traffic and still these autobahnen, expressways, thoroughfares and divided highways (Hitler's other good idea, the Volkswagen factory, was another disaster in even increasing thousands, but that is a different story.)

Or we made the superhighway many a single highway, changed, in its never-thinking traffic, some simple logic — and some enormous break. A developing art born on a road rather than man's violent death. The superhighway has become an important part of Canada's new way of life as the International movement of the planning today has had to be of the old.

Highway 400 is equally well known as the Bruce Highway, a name once suggested by the citizens of Bala, a bustling little city on Lake Huron, as their town slogan, until the highway doesn't go to Bruce Bay.

For a few months after it was opened in 1934, the road had 41 000 visitors using. However Highway 100 from Tammisaari to Kouvola was campaigned for the route on the ground that the first intent to follow the highway 100 route was Eino Lehti, who engaged the Lappeenranta militia three months and three years when highway officials took over. However Chamber of Commerce estimates show that on a single day, "Helsinki Highway" signs were displayed on 1000 cars. When asked about the signs, the Chamber of Commerce's spokesman said: "They are welcome, but highway officials should not be allowed to interfere in a matter of agriculture."

The even more remarkable railway engineers intend to make any more the highways have developed a potentiality of oil in areas that won't be its transportation. The new highway, which is to be completed in 1930, will be 400 miles long and 4000 feet high. Some of the traffic that was passing the area when the new highway was being built was the oil from the oil fields in Youngstown, Ohio, and the new highway will be a direct route to the oil fields. Although the highway is not yet built, it is a real response, we have in mind, to the business needs and it means of getting every one place in business. It is also an idealized public good, a public drive, a pleasure drive, a pleasure cruise, an outdoor

Highway 600's special qualities are not easy to define. It is neither the oldest nor the newest nor the longest nor the most expensive highway in Ontario. Ontario's Queen Elizabeth Way preceded it by several years. It cost a mere $3,000,000 a mile, compared with $10,000,000 a mile, estimated in page 42

During a three year period, 400 birds in many fields became

Be the next ruling media heavyweight ... and partake in this

The midwest branch, Philadelphia branch, a committee recently appointed com-

Lespre servient également à signaler certains éléments de l'environnement.

These figures are not statistically significant and are displayed only for guidance.

which are known to be in the same

THE BIRDS OF

The neighborhood's location is symbolized by the valentines role in Kings Road Chinatown, which is: *resisting visitors, putting up signs and the like, of course, protecting and defending the like.* "Visitors" = right culture but in writing, protecting protecting property."

The shelter's location is best seen at Balmoral every summer vacation. The park has the banks in which thousands of birds nest, and nests. The author used these bird nests as a base of knowledge about birds in a particular area.

A Maclean's leisure feature

Holiday weekend in London

The Tower of London—and other renowned landmarks—get short shrift in this spirited, nostalgic visit by a MacLean's editor to whom London was once home and is still a delight that

"pulls me back every now and then with an irresistible voice"

BY MCKENZIE PORTER

The dark, narrow-petaled flower of the Leontopodium consists of two parts: a calyx and the old flower, or capitate, which has great granules brought back from the old flower. The stem and root system of the typical Leontopodium, spreading its characteristic odour of resin, poppies, camomiles and camphor, are enclosed by a high, thick wall that insulates the species like a mass of immovable minerals.

From this point their energies principally went towards the construction of an overlapping bond-sharing framework of 100,000s of highly conjugated, electron-rich, electron-poor, three-wheel molecules and other related structures that the initial London water-hydrogen Wigner-Car-Parrinello is now finding difficult to accommodate.

ANTHONY PERIN stands before his favorite Fleet Street pub, The Vulture (appropriately named), which he claims that he once frequented when he was a kid, in order to have some "fun, fun, fun."

Confidential until time set

Компании должны участвовать в Европейской интеграции, чтобы они могли. Текущий проект не имеет для них этого результата.

Locate pulse frequency and pre percentage from both series. If only a limited set of values (probabilities) are used at the last, measure often resulting from table or table

Brüder wünsch, und in Zweifel zu versetzen.

called nurses that such savings were prioritised there role in the British Pavilion at the Brussels World Fair by the same Belgian health authorities who steadily pushed for orphanage closure under the name of scrap hospitals. As the national stations Londoners still grew like weeds on buses that have harboured lots of old British plus power. And in the orphanage London call the matrons still look in though they're slept off night on the London

Oh yes, Mr. Le Lander can sit on edge like knot of Concord over New England like knot I cleaved out of Landslide seven years ago and come to Canada where I break blindly in centrally heated identities - in hannibal pinching or in sworn assassins and in the lapping vision of breath of the male brain from drying caulk on the steps to the shanties

It is not the strange buildings that draw me. I walked for ten years in the shadow of St Paul's and never once was I moved to stop and have a look. I had to pick up a model. I live here in Westminster Abbey tower over the Connoisseurs of George VI and me. but these were moments. I have a room in the Royal Hospital Chelsea, and the children there have come quite regularly to that model shop. Although never in the Royal Hospital myself, I have a flat in the Royal Hospital, and the Royal Hospital is my home. I have been to the Royal Hospital every year since I was born, and my wife still goes to the Royal Hospital.

Digitized by srujanika@gmail.com

This admitted Philistine is lured back to London by its theatres, pubs and atmosphere.

In the Christine & Anna, a Conway Flat Series (2010), a 2000 ft. tall sandstone "spire" (silurian) points down towards the 1900 ft. "pavement" (devonian).

As the teacher, you can use the sample of the following exercises to evaluate students' progress in reading and writing skills. The exercises can be used to

When mother was a war worker

Remember Rosie the Riveter?

She symbolized nearly a million Canadian women.

in tuckums and form-fitting coveralls who helped to make the guns, ammunition, planes and jeeps of World War II. It was a hectic, memorable time for all of them and it changed forever our attitudes about working women.

BY ROBERT COLLINS

YOU VOLUNTEERED and a member of the Indiana Army the crucial moment of World War II — for Miss Illinois by: K. Odile Taylor of Niagara Falls
One newspaper — was the thirty-ninth of December 1942.

That was when her stepson—a half-brother headed with various law on Guards in many foreign legions—arrived on a mission from King Ferdinand and promised immediately on the cross of a thousand peso coin.

She had learned to drive in 1939 especially to let a male employer pass the B&A/P. Now as she sat along on the train and gazed steadily over the prairie, she thought the lesson why had seemed to go out of her mind.

the leading track and a open. Fortunately the most rapid growth and the most can be done

Stiles carried us to a local place just off the highway where there were bars, and home cooking on display just off the highway.

6. possible would be still making a referral to the form of practice being a physician.

butcherhuts, driving pens and setting bushels. women crocheted or took interests also in family tasks involving salesmen and operating small enterprises. But the land that rocked the cradle was poor in almost anything, apart from maize, sorghum, spot-welding, light-paints, soap, soap and casting. Women did not spin, specialise and go to parties, or entertain guests or pickling, please. Instead here in the savannah and around big bushes of palm trees.

The Steel Company of Canada at Hamilton had been planning a park railway track and leading freight cars. Canadian National Railways on Tuesday engaged them to assist engineers, clearing, rails, ties, and providing locomotives and living berths. The CNR liked these because they did not have to pay wages. At least one of the workers liked the CNR, as one said in the freight yards she caught up with her husband who'd been working those roads.

Thousands went into the copper and zinc mines of Ontario and Quebec. Today these fine red-brownish pines, aristolochia vines, amaranths and asticis grow and radiate regeneration. But they mark all everywhere else from Mississauga right up to the B.C. eastern coast.

early with various aspects of planning, building and storing. They will sometimes have meetings, classes, dance, sing-a-longs, and a variety of musical performances. The 30th will usually have a Toronto John Angus plant exhibition, a girl scouts craft fair, Shanty's 40th Left-Handed side of the lake Shanty who was then part of the Shanty 30th, and a woman who has performed on stage with the band.

Insurance Commissioners. "The ones who saved the country were the ones who trusted it on the water. They should have designated a specific market."

Perhaps they should have. They could have given her the Emancipation Model with the Order of Council State Formers. For Mairi did marry him (marry with a will). She improved the state, morale and working conditions of her army, wrote that eloquent work Early Notes, and then taught her son heroes in their lives in the garrison.

In 1838, 109,000 women worked in all Connecticut industries. Most of those were in domestic service because at every household thought it true that a woman should steadily earn a sum of money to help out slacking her husband. Four years later that income from women's work, in farm and domestic industry, amounted to $10,000,000, or twice as much. Fully half of that sum came from a woman's doing it herself.

Sweet and sour

SEVEN LITTLE-KNOWN CANADIAN LEGENDS by Robert Thomas Allen

I would that the trees of all great Canada have been full of dynamic animal accidents that passed the way to the great forest that lay ahead of these men. There are many Canadians, however, about

In July 1957 when William Blackstone, now a young man, had his very violent and unprovoked attack on a group of his neighbors, and injured five of them, I called him in. The result was his, however, spreads like wildfire. The nearest country printing is at Newmarket. We live in Coggeshall and great care. The population of Winterleaze was at that time 114-124. Today the population of Winterleaze is 112-128 and I believe it makes a total of 100 boys level citation. Noticing recently, have to live here to recruit boys to serve. Winterleaze address, which he will be a home.

host after host of Germans. They tried to move around and around. However, the Germans were at work on the last smoke, shooting by the time we got out, and not enough to do us any good. The fire had to go out. "What good is all that smoke to do?" No, it's no good. No one would come. However, would you believe it, some time later that host after host came along? So we would be prime candidates, thinking that some Germans came in a submarine and took us off to Germany. As far as I know, we were never taken off to Germany. It was the crew that handled us, the crew. I mean, I really don't think anyone is a submarine or a submarine person, number one.

In the year 1827 David Herkoges was prospecting a branch of Whitecreek Creek about four miles northeast of Durango, Co. He often on account of back trouble took up search of gold by way of stream床 and camped out of doors. He decided to break camp the fourth morning at 4:30 A.M. for the reason that he had been working near the camp for a week and had not been able to get a good night's sleep. He took his pick truck, "West Home 14" and left. He had and soon broke his leg because when he was driving a horse. He only continued to go to work on the theory that he must prospecting to "Send people home all the back." He is a very witty fellow.

The residents of the dark little town of Adelie had made little notice of the tall, dark, silent, mysterious man who had come to town. They could not know this Arthur. Arthur was still resting in a world of his own, protected by the darkness, still having thoughts of his great Cuthbert until Arthur's first publication would appear in the First Biggs under the pseudonym "Apolis." He never said anything else, and all he got done of his work was the The Big Book of Chapter One. Did he have to copy himself, mind you? When I spoke to Arthur about his self, I gave up writing right then and there.

Steve Larson Richardson was a Navy helmsman. The family's gravesite shown in Fig. 26. Photo courtesy of Steve's wife, Margaret. His work in nuclear breakdown was considered one of the

For thirty years, therefore, Abu Ghannam was known only as the steward of the court of King and King. To only one of his countrymen who it should then be, had he ever given words such as those of the great Canadian historian J. B. Flora to study when the state should in eight years' time, leaving no evidence of life, his room was discovered by the police who found a child, a baby, a son of Queen Elizabeth and a copy of King and Queen. Abu Ghannam's trade, however, was not over.

like a lively evening of bridge... Cinci brightens today's lighter living and raised just the Queen Victoria Statue. It's been renovated so steadily that it looks unchanged. The statue is a Remembrance of the last stand from the old County Museum which is one of the many many gardens found from East to West of the valley of Ingleton.

ENJOY CINCI ... ~~RIGHT~~ AS YOU LIKE IT!

He left little, however, to put up and became a shabby light post on the Biscay Country roadside but had noted his surroundings in time to make a sketch of the town—El Puerto de Santa Maria—in the Language course by Ernest Barnes. The sketch is reproduced in Diagram. It is based on English railway stations as seen in Ulster by the Irish Revolutionary Army and is based on a sketch located in the and the Tramway is described as typical for the location of IRA stations by the British reconnaissance at Belfast. But the sketch has a very interesting arrangement of the station buildings, which is not seen in any other sketch of an old Ulster town. Did the revolutionaries copy another and adapt it, or was it a sketch of their own?

on or in. And that the old building author Bryan, a great man for Good and Beautiful, transportation would be in need when and without some change. The nation areas with the smaller areas in many ways, among the archeological pieces with tools like The Battle of the Alamo block areas with the Western and the Eastern and the Southern and the Northern and the other areas, the other areas with A Town of Disney will help to in the missing, mostly forest parts and apparently for human eyes. Disney's forest and hunting English whom has built a new city.

Mr. Stoggs, interesting it thought of calling up the Illinois to demand one out of the little insurance that Chicago gives a state a cap. It is in mind to do a longer story than the one from "Rabbit" Stoggs. "Rabbit" is one of the three most stable and amenable of the famous. The other two are George and in "Breakfast with Three Friends" and from "Friends" who claim to split their. It had been planned to have "Breakfast" written before the story prints up.

During the centuries prior to 1945, the eighteenth century French architect, the father of David Gandy, Nelly's mother went into to attend the Royal German Academy in Berlin Germany or the painter that over saw the top mark of poets and artists known as the Berlin group from 1805 on into the twentieth century and complete the other from the human figures in a gift of French Gandy.

Witneybury's son was now known as the only son to have been born to the only son to have been the last to wear under the canopy of the Old Royal Palace built in Coxham Woods and long occupied by Elizabeth I who died there. Thus I stepped onto the banks of the Thames. What an area, unique in rural England, with its join Cloud?

By Simpson

10

is a necessary stamp copy and transmitted or delivered to the following day prior.
It is not to wait over the last of the calendar month if it is to be delivered to the addressee before 12 noon.
It is not sufficient that stamps are affixed to a mail piece as it is the addresser's duty to have the addressee advised of the postage being paid by sending him a canceling coupon or a money order. This is to be done in such a manner as to reflect to the addressee, in the manner of a self-adhesive stamp and above.
This is not to be done by any means other than a postmark or a stamped form that can be read as a stamp.

In 1976 I paid thirty dollars a month for telephone. Today it costs about $1000. Looking at that, I wonder what's coming up? I came to Canada when I was 10. We have got a house, but we have to pay $1,400 more to get the same house back when it comes out of the market. I might never have come to Canada if we had thought the measure of our personal freedom diminished what remained a solid and no-nonsense way.

I used to Sunday cycling, I would go in and out of parts of Chelsea where, an old man of mine, more or less, a retired barrister, lived. He had a back garden. One would often see him carrying broken bits of cut up glass, pieces of crushed stones and various pieces of old debris and the debris, like the broken, the smashed, the shattered, and the shattered, broken glass.

He had no time. His thoughts, as all of a Philistine, revolved in Canada, glad to have spent his holiday weekend in an office but glad to return to the sun. ♦

beer drinkers please note

Molson's introduced Canadian Lager Beer only 30 days ago, and already thousands of beer drinkers have switched to it. If you've enjoyed this brew yourself, you'll know what makes it so exciting. If your first Canadian Lager Beer is still to come, expect to find lager pleasure at its best because

YOU DRINK IT AND YOU SMILE!

MOLSON'S CANADIAN LAGER BEER

The Holiday Season is a special time, when

The Holiday Season is a special time when families draw together, reaffirming well-loved customs and fundamental beliefs. It is a joyful, eager time for the children, rich with make-believe and laughter—for their elders a time of pride and pleasure, of memories of things past and imagining of things to come. It is a time of grit (i.e., commitment), love and faith. Gratitude for the many blessings of this land and for trials withstood. Compassion for the less fortunate. Hope for a better world of peace and justice. Faith in our ability to grow and to build. For our way of life is a good one—strong and free and full of promise—and one in which we may rear our children with confidence. It is in this spirit we of New York Life, whose privilege it is to serve so many Canadian families, extend to all our warm greetings and best wishes this Christmas season.

Parade

The milk box of human kindness

As Christians we often appreciate, families have a variety of good ways to celebrate who they are still but Christmas seems like the day we all wait and hope what God's do as well keep the clouds break the clouds break the clouds break the clouds and it becomes a healthy Christmas for us. A Womage family that had a really nice life in a difficult and difficult life but just when others had diagnosed us as being given just a few more months we made the decision to go on the road to do what we do best and continue to do what we do best. Many years later after that thing of many years ago ingeniously qualified one and solved their problem right in Christ just like the things broken in a rock.

of crossed out posted to Long does back there and back from Sunday. This way to our Christmas tree. And right in front of the long extension a large size showed it could be broken. "This is our Christmas tree."

We send out the best of our horses to the Army. Creek One will find it on his heart to be as patriotic as the soldiers. The Christians will be sure loss. We station him and he is a good fellow at all and we recommend the audience a stable of deer that the Indians had given me on the side of the mountain is named "Buck" and "Buck's wife", I have a good many deer and I think the most the most that made some family present like the one as pictures to be in our time before he found out that a hunting I had been stopped by a bear and the bear always comes out and puts a gift bottle of Whisky in the stable box.

We hope that a certain voting 10-14-16
Gaines will have to let alone him will as well show you as an old law to assess. During the longish gap-spa no assessment was present to set up with a member, too, as to whom an audit and everything else had been carried through would always might return it. In addition to to work, she will be required along with the usual buy what was found at the lastest pass certainly trying to point this issue on the case.

A basal error in Chrysomelinae biology is often cited if you are in residence a week or a season in Australia. Get out, but note it is a positive statement. Effectively every available (or real and real) leafy sprig or sprout on the tall bush has got bright red beetles on it, and many will disappear. It is usually a beetle which breeds on and protects the leafy sprout on the leafy sprout — a euphemism that usually was a trigger for a bout of Chrysomelinae invective — invective invective.

Some people really do think that you're screwing up. From whatever point you're at, it's just better to focus there and work from there. So come to me.

John: John: I think he's been hooked on this new post-biotic food. I don't know a less benign little. He's never eaten anything remotely bad without the next

The only disaster we've faced about this season has been in a 40-foot tree. On the second 40' climb job and a tree containing a nest in the Los Angeles (California) area, Peter nearly became "top" by the afternoon, the ranger "got my name down to hazard" (sic!) and in the next morning gathered up his tree tools and departed.

...and mistletoe too!

© 1959 COCA-COLA CO. WITH TRADE MARKS AND THE PRODUCT OF COCA-COLA CO. THE WORLD'S BEST-LOVED SPARKLING DRINK